HARBOR HISTORY

Wickford Harbor has a rich diverse history, with sights and structures dating back to the revolutionary war: Smith Castle, the Hussey Bridge, the historic homes and famous boatyards, all visible in RI's 3rd most significant commercial harbor, in its day.

WHERE WATER MEETS THE SHORE

Wickford Harbor, part of the greater Narragansett Bay estuary system, has an interesting collection of shore-side ecosystems: a sandy beach, a salt marsh, rocky shore and 3 undeveloped and untouched islands – all within the harbor. All this available for us to learn from and explore.

One of the most significant structures, for any mariner, along the shore is a lighthouse. Wickford has been blessed with three. We will see them, learn about them and hear the interesting stories about the brave souls who manned them. Few harbors have a richer lighthouse history.
